Christine,

It is a complete and utter mystery to me why EPA thinks that despite the fact it's under a court order to meet these deadlines it need only brush them off without even informing the court. It's equally a mystery why you are not even committing to a new deadline despite the fact that the purported reason for the delay was the government shutdown. Could you please explain EPA's outrageous position on these two matters?

Subject: Oregon CZARA schedule for NOAA/EPA Federal Register notice

Nina,

I'm writing as a follow-up to our conversation earlier regarding the signature date for the Federal Register notice on the Oregon CZARA package. As I mentioned, in part due to the federal shutdown, EPA and NOAA will not be able to make the November 15th date. We are now back on target and hope to get the notice signed by the middle of December. As a consequence, the May date for the final action may also be affected, but we would like to hold off on making any assessment of that until after we get the FR notice out for public comment.

Thanks,

Christine Psyk
